REMEMBERING PAT COPE

Pat Cope was a tremendous supporter of all things Kings. She taught in our district at both JF Burns and Kings Junior High working with special education students. She was a huge advocate for her students and continually went the extra mile for them.

Pat and her husband Mike served many roles as band parents—including presidents of the boosters—while all three of their children went through the band program here at Kings. Two of her kids have returned to Kings to help instruct the marching band.

Pat was the founder of our BandCakes event. She researched and planned the fundraiser for almost two years before putting the plan into action.

Pat was always supportive of the band and was a true band fan. Even on the coldest or hottest of days, you could find Pat clapping for the kids. She continued to be a big band supporter even after her youngest had graduated from the program.

I could always count on a kind word of support from Pat even while she was battling cancer. She was an inspiration to all of us as a parent, colleague, neighbor, friend, and band fan.
